N. P. TRAIN KILLS 3 AT GREGORY CROSSING

Stormy Aklavik Holding Impatient Lindberghs

AWAIT CLEARING WEATHER TO FLY ON TO FAR NORTH

HERO WORSHIPPING CROWDS SURROUND COLONEL AND HIS WIFE

UNDECIDED ON WHAT ROUTE OR WHEN THEY WOULD LEAVE

Aklavik, N. W. T., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh remained today in storm bound Aklavik, awaiting clearing weather to continue their 7,000 mile vacation trip from Washington to Tokyo, Japan.

Although anxious to be on the wing again, the flying colonel found the states was enjoying his visit immensely, as was Mrs. Lindbergh. The sojourn, already extended well beyond schedule, has provided the publicity shy Lindbergh one of his few opportunities to live naturally since he made the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris in 1927.

Even here in the sparsely populated region inside the Arctic circle, Lindbergh could not escape entirely from hero worshipping crowds, but the adulation of the solemn faced Eskimos and Indians was different from any he had known before and his frequent smiles and easy manner indicated he enjoyed the change.

The Lindberghs retained quarters in the rough, log constructed Presbyterian manse with Dr. J. A. Urquhart, governmental medical officer, and Mrs. Urquhart, as their hosts.

Late last night Col. Lindbergh announced he was undecided on what route they would follow on the next leg of the flight and did not know just when they would leave.

Latest radio reports indicated it would be impossible for the U. S. coast guard cutter Northland to reach Point Barrow, where it was scheduled to meet the Lindberghs and supply their ship with gasoline.

Because of the inability of the Northland to proceed through the fog off the west Alaskan coast, Lindbergh said it was probable that instead of flying from here to Point Barrow, which is 550 miles west and north, then south to Nome, he and Mrs. Lindbergh would fly directly southwest over central Alaska to Nome. This change would substitute one flight of about 750 miles for two of 550 miles each.

Lindbergh said they were ready to leave any minute that the weather cleared. Their monoplane had been overhauled and refueled since they landed.

In an interview Thursday, Col. Lindbergh expressed an opinion that the Mackenzie river route was the most feasible air route to the Orient as it afforded both refueling stations and good accommodations. The route he outlined would pass over Edmonton and up the regular air mail line to Aklavik, thence across central Alaska. It would be considerably out of the way of the route usually followed by aviators going from Siberia to the states, but Lindbergh expressed an opinion it would be safer.

Aklavik, N. W. T., Aug. 7.—(Via Royal Canadian Radio to Edmonton, Alta.)—The barrier of fog and cloud which has held Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in this trading post for two days began to lift today, giving the flier and his wife hope that they might resume their aerial vacation journey to the Orient within a few hours.

Lindbergh's monoplane, resting on its pontoons in the muddy Mackenzie river, was made ready for a possible take-off at 1 P. M. MST.

Lindbergh indicated, while waiting for his plane to be refueled, that he would head westward to Point Barrow, Alaska.

This was his original plan, but the flier had been uncertain about carrying it out because of the failure of the coast guard cutter Northland to reach the northernmost Alaska town with a gasoline supply.

Cramer is surveying a commercial flying route from the United States to northern Europe, to include several stops and he made comparatively safe by precautions he is expected to outline.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Parker Cramer, American flier enroute to Copenhagen, took off for the Faroe Islands at 2:10 p. m. today.

LOSING OUT IN RE-APPOINTMENT, KILLS HIMSELF

FRANCIS W. STONEBURG, NORTH BRANCH, SHOOTS HIMSELF TO DEATH

HAD BEEN GAME WARDEN AND DISTRICT CHIEF GAME WARDEN

North Branch, Minn., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Despair over not being reappointed as district chief game warden was blamed today by his family for the suicide of Francis W. Stoneburg, 34, who shot himself to death last night.

Stoneburg had been on a call in connection with his duties as game warden at Rush Lake. With him was his brother-in-law, E. R. Stone. After the call was completed and Stoneburg had returned to the car, he excused himself for a few minutes, Stone said.

The warden walked about 100 yards up the road from where his automobile was parked and shot himself, according to Stone's testimony. Coroner L. N. Westberg said the case was a suicide.

Stoneburg had been a game warden in North Branch for seven years and when he was informed last month that he would not be reappointed he told his wife he thought it would "disgrace him in the public's eyes."

Mrs. Stoneburg said that her husband was widely known for his efficient work as game warden and was very proud of his record.

Members of the American Legion will conduct a military funeral for Stoneburg at Cambridge at 2:30 P. M. Sunday.

Surviving are his widow, two sons, Calvin, 6, and Nigel, 3, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stoneburg of Cambridge.

A. R. Erickson of North Branch had been appointed to replace Stoneburg as game warden.

PRIEST RIVER, IDAHO, DOOMED BY FOREST FIRE

MORE THAN 1,000 MEN BATTLING TO PREVENT ITS REACHING OUTSKIRTS

DOZEN FARM HOMES IN PATH OF FLAMES ALREADY WIPED OUT

Priest River, Ida., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—This entire village appeared doomed today by a wall of flame advancing through the forest surrounding it.

More than 1,000 men were battling the fire in an effort to prevent its reaching the city limits, but despite their work, the fire was creeping closer hourly.

A dozen farm homes in the path of the disastrous blaze already had been wiped out. Red Cross officials were caring for destitute families who had lost their all in the flames. Thousands of heads of live stock had been burned to death.

J. H. Daly, his wife and their four children staggered into Priest River yesterday from their farm, their faces blistered by heat, after having lain for a day in a mud hole to escape the fire which destroyed their home and burned over the spot where they had taken refuge, when the flames had raged them in.

Thousands of acres of standing timber already have been destroyed.

While almost every available man in town was fighting the fire, the women and children remained at home, packing their belongings, preparing to abandon the town if all efforts to stop the fire proved futile.

Germany's Highest Statesmen in Significant Conferences With Premier Benito Mussolini

FINANCIAL AND ECONOMIC PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

AGREE ON IDEA EUROPE NEEDS ESTABLISHMENT OF CONFIDENCE

GERMAN PEOPLE GRATEFUL FOR INTEREST SHOWN BY ITALIAN NATION

By THOMAS B. MORGAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 7.—Significant conversations between Germany's highest statesmen and Premier Benito Mussolini began here today.

Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and his foreign minister, Mr. Julius Curtius, reached Rome from Berlin at 8:20 A. M. in a luxurious special train provided by the government.

Brüning and Curtius were greeted at the railway station by Premier Mussolini, Dino Grandi, the foreign minister, members of the foreign office staff from the German embassy. Thousands cheered at the railway and along the streets as the official party drove to a hotel.

The visiting German statesmen went into conference with Mussolini and Grandi at once. It was understood they conferred on Germany's economic crisis, but the conversations were in private.

Premier Mussolini conferred with Brüning and Dr. Curtius for nearly an hour and a half at Venice Palace. Chancellor Brüning subsequently issued the following statement to the press:

"The fact that we have undertaken this trip to Rome at a moment when Germany is engaged in a struggle for her economic and political existence shows how important it appears to us to have personal contacts and an exchange of views with Italy's ministers, especially the eminent head of the government."

"The German people noticed with high gratitude the Italian interest in Germany's grave situation by rapidly and unconditionally accepting the Hoover moratorium plan."

Chancellor Brüning referred to the friendly conversations he and Dr. Curtius have held in visits abroad this summer beginning with their visit at Chequers, Eng., in June.

"We wish not alone to discuss amicably the questions of interest to Italy and Germany," he said, "but also those problems which must be resolved by Germany and all Europe are to be given the possibility of a common work for peace as well as health."

STATE MOBILIZES TO SAVE ITS CROPS FROM THE HOPPERS

$29,500 APPROPRIATED TO FIGHT THE SCOURGE IN MINNESOTA

STATE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL APPROVES AN EMERGENCY EXPENDITURE

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—With $29,500 appropriated, Minnesota today mobilized to save its crops from the grasshopper scourge.

The state executive council late yesterday approved an emergency expenditure of $16,500 at the request of R. A. Trovatten, commissioner of agriculture. The signature of Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who is vacationing in the state's northern lakes, must be obtained before the money is available but his secretary, Vince A. Day, said he was sure the governor would sign and added he would communicate with him today.

Other members of the state government today said that Minnesota would appropriate additional funds if needed to prevent repetition of plague which already has cost the state close to $2,000,000 in crop losses.

Most of the money will be used to distribute poison in the western sections of the state where the pests are most numerous. A. G. Ruggles, state entomologist who is in charge of combating the grasshoppers, said Kittson county was worst hit and $5,000 would be needed there. An expenditure of $5,000 in Marshall county was expected to be made.

The rest of the new funds will be spent in the following seven counties: Polk, Norman, Wilkin, Ottertail, Roseau, Wadena and Clay. Clay county in which Moorhead is located was the least affected of the seven.

Trovatten will leave for the Red River valley this week where he expects to present the seriousness of the situation before Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde who cut short a vacation in the west to visit the Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota and other plague infested areas.

GUST OF WIND SENDS TWO PLANES CRASHING TO EARTH

Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—A guest of wind through the formation of 18 army pursuit planes today sent two planes crashing to earth and a third hurtling to a precarious landing. Pilots of the wrecked machines saved themselves by 400-foot parachute leaps. Neither was injured seriously.

The gusts tossed the wing tip of the ship of Lieut. Kenneth W. Mosher, Rockford, Ill., into the propeller of Lieut. Richard Crabbs of Orlando, Fla., jostling Crabbs' plane against that of Lieut. Robert W. Burns of Madison, Wis. Crabbs righted his ship and landed in a field.

GOV. MURRAY AND OIL FIRMS SITTING TIGHT

BOTH ARE PLAYING A GAME OF WATCHFUL WAITING

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN KEEP AT JOB OF CLOSING OIL WELLS

Oklahoma City, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray and the oil companies both played a game of watchful waiting today in the governor's war to boost oil prices by shutting down all wells in the state under martial law.

National guardsmen kept steadily at their job of closing the wells, in accordance with the governor's orders to stop production in all flush fields until the price of crude reaches $1 a barrel. Only about 10 per cent of the wells remained to be closed.

The oil companies indicated they intended to take no action to reopen the wells until their reserve supplies ran out, at least. Several smaller refiners were closed, but the major companies kept going with reserves.

"Alfalfa Bill" repeated his ultimatum that "the price of oil must reach $1 a barrel," and made no further move. The price still was 50 cents, just what it was when he put the fields under martial law.

The only activity was in east Texas, where producers started a movement to close their wells voluntarily. Murray was kept out of the limelight somewhat because of the death of his father Wednesday night, but expressed complete confidence that shutting down the wells would result in a hike in price. His voice rose in anger when he mentioned reported efforts of oil companies to put him under obligations by financing his political campaigns.

"I wouldn't want to be president and have my hands tied," he shouted in telling how oil interests had offered to finance a race for the democratic presidential nomination.

FLIER HITS AUTO NEAR STATION AT NOON; 2 CRITICAL

ALL VICTIMS, RELATIVES; WERE ENROUTE TO TAKE ONE TO WALKER SANATORIUM

DROVE VEHICLE ONTO CROSSING IN PATH OF FAST PASSENGER TRAIN

Three persons were instantly killed and two others critically injured when a speeding Northern Pacific passenger train struck their automobile at a grade crossing at Gregory at 12:15 P. M. today. Gregory is two miles south of Little Falls.

The dead were Fred Wischstedt, New Ulm, Minn. Mrs. Otto Wischstedt, his daughter-in-law, New Ulm. Oscar Gustafson, his son-in-law, Sleepy Eye, Minn.

Members of the two families were in the automobile which was driven from behind the station at Gregory, onto the tracks in front of the onrushing train. The party had stopped at the station to eat its lunch before going on to Walker, its destination, where Fred Wischstedt planned to enter the Walker sanatorium for treatment.

Passing motorists brought Otto Wischstedt, New Ulm, and Mrs. Oscar Gustafson to the Little Falls hospital where physicians said they were in grave condition.

The accident occurred on highway No. 27. The train was the Northern Pacific No. 13 and was west bound.

KANSAS CITY STAR CHALLENGES DOHERTY

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—"All the dust that Mr. Doherty and his allies can throw will accomplish nothing. Excessive gas rates must come down."

Thus the Kansas City Star commented editorially today on Henry L. Doherty's purchase of half interest in the Kansas City Journal-Post.

The Star also flung back a defiant retort to the utility magnate's proposal, in a letter printed in the Journal-Post today, for a retrenchment from bitter attacks on Cities Service.

There will be no let-up in the Star's fight for reduction of excessive rates—a reduction already made throughout Kansas by non-Doherty utilities in accordance with what they have said was "the trend of the times," the editorial said.

"Of course, Mr. Doherty's efforts to divert attention from the real issue—the reduction of excessive rates for domestic gas—will be futile. The machinery for regulation of the Doherty unregulated gas pipe line monopoly already has been set in motion by the duly constituted authorities of Kansas and Missouri."

Levying Assessments for Capone's Defense in Court Battle

Chicago, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Daily News said today that Chicago and Cicero bookmakers are being heavily assessed to finance "Scarface Al" Capone's impending court battle against government charges of income tax evasion.

Capone gangsters, sometimes backing their demands with guns, have forced "contributions" not only from the 100 bookmakers dominated by the Capone vice and liquor syndicate, but from scores of others, and some of the victims have fled the country, the News said government agents had learned.

Besides cash payments, which sometimes approximate several thousands dollars, the "bookies" are compelled by threats of being "taken for a ride" to pledge as high as 60 per cent of their winnings for the next six months, the News said.

EDISON BELIEVES HE WILL LIVE LONG

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Thomas A. Edison predicted today that if he lived until February, when he will be 85 years old, he would live at least for another 30 years.

He collapsed last Saturday. The aged inventor is in the best of spirits and his condition now is better than at any time since he returned from Florida two months ago, according to his personal physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe.

Convicted of Forging Former Mayor's Name

Minneapolis, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Frank Harley, 24, convicted of forging George E. Leach's name to checks, told district court today that the former Minneapolis mayor was a partner in an illegal punch board manufacturing concern. Harley testified that he had stolen the checks from the W. and L. Supply company, which he said was owned by Leach and Graff Wolff and manufactured punchboards.

dates of Governor Murray (inset) march on the fields at Oklahoma City. Eight hundred wells have been dammed. Now Murray's cohorts are mobilizing for invasion of the Greater Seminole fields, where producers declare only bayonets can stop their work.

The gusts tossed the wing tip of the ship of Lieut. Kenneth W. Mosher, Rockford, Ill., into the propeller of Lieut. Richard Crabb of Orlando, Fla., jostling Crabb's plane against that of Lieut. Robert W. Burns of Madison, Wis.

Crabb righted his ship and landed in a field.

GOV. MURRAY AND OIL FIRMS SITTING TIGHT

BOTH ARE PLAYING A GAME OF WATCHFUL WAITING

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN KEEP AT JOB OF CLOSING OIL WELLS

Oklahoma City, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray and the oil companies both played a game of watchful waiting today in the governor's war to boost oil prices by shutting down all wells in the state under martial law.

National guardsmen kept steadily at their job of closing the wells, in accordance with the governor's orders to stop production in all flush fields until the price of crude reaches $1 a barrel. Only about 10 per cent of the wells remained to be closed.

The oil companies indicated they intended to take no action to reopen the wells until their reserve supplies ran out, at least. Several smaller refiners were closed, but the major companies kept going with reserves.

"Alfalfa Bill" repeated his ultimatum that "the price of oil must reach $1 a barrel," and made no further move. The price still was 50 cents, just what it was when he put the fields under martial law.

The only activity was in east Texas, where producers started a movement to close their wells voluntarily.

Murray was kept out of the limelight somewhat because of the death of his father Wednesday night, but expressed complete confidence that shutting down the wells would result in a hike in price. His voice rose in anger when he mentioned reported efforts of oil companies to put him under obligations by financing his political campaigns.

"I wouldn't want to be president and have my hands tied," he shouted in telling how oil interests had offered to finance a race for the democratic presidential nomination.

FLIER HITS AUTO NEAR STATION AT NOON; 2 CRITICAL

ALL VICTIMS, RELATIVES; WERE ENROUTE TO TAKE ONE TO WALKER SANATORIUM

DROVE VEHICLE ONTO CROSSING IN PATH OF FAST PASSENGER TRAIN

Three persons were instantly killed and two others critically injured when a speeding Northern Pacific passenger train struck their automobile at a grade crossing at Gregory at 12:15 P. M. today. Gregory is two miles south of Little Falls.

The dead were: Fred Wischstedt, New Ulm, Minn. Mrs. Otto Wischstedt, his daughter-in-law, New Ulm. Oscar Gustafson, his son-in-law, Sleepy Eye, Minn.

Members of the two families were in the automobile which was driven from behind the station at Gregory, onto the tracks in front of the onrushing train. The party had stopped at the station to eat its lunch before going on to Walker, its destination, where Fred Wischstedt planned to enter the Walker sanatorium for treatment.

Passing motorists brought Otto Wischstedt, New Ulm, and Mrs. Oscar Gustafson to the Little Falls hospital where physicians said they were in grave condition.

The accident occurred on highway No. 27. The train was the Northern Pacific No. 13 and was west bound.

KANSAS CITY STAR CHALLENGES DOHERTY

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—"All the dust that Mr. Doherty and his allies can throw will accomplish nothing. Excessive gas rates must come down."

Thus the Kansas City Star commented editorially today on Henry L. Doherty's purchase of half interest in the Kansas City Journal-Post.

The Star also flung back a defiant retort to the utility magnate's proposal, in a letter printed in the Journal-Post today, for a retrenchment from bitter attacks on Cities Service.

There will be no let-up in the Star's fight for reduction of excessive rates—a reduction already made throughout Kansas by non-Doherty utilities in accordance with what they have said was "the trend of the times," the editorial said.

"Of course, Mr. Doherty's efforts to divert attention from the real issue—the reduction of excessive rates for domestic gas—will be futile. The machinery for regulation of the Doherty unregulated gas pipe line monopoly already has been set in motion by the duly constituted authorities of Kansas and Missouri."

Levying Assessments for Capone's Defense in Court Battle

Chicago, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Daily News said today that Chicago and Cicero bookmakers are being heavily assessed to finance "Scarface Al" Capone's impending court battle against government charges of income tax evasion.

Capone gangsters, sometimes backing their demands with guns, have forced "contributions" not only from the 100 bookmakers dominated by the Capone vice and liquor syndicate, but from scores of others, and some of the victims have fled the country, the News said government agents had learned.

Besides cash payments, which sometimes approximate several thousands dollars, the "bookies" are compelled by threats of being "taken for a ride" to pledge as high as 60 per cent of their winnings for the next six months, the News said.

EDISON BELIEVES HE WILL LIVE LONG

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Thomas A. Edison predicted today that if he lived until February, when he will be 85 years old, he would live at least for another 10 years.

He collapsed last Saturday. The aged inventor is in the best of spirits and his condition now is better than at any time since he returned from Florida two months ago, according to his personal physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe.

Convicted of Forging Former Mayor's Name

Minneapolis, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Frank Harley, 24, convicted of forging George E. Leach's name to checks, told district court today that the former Minneapolis mayor was a partner in an illegal punch board manufacturing concern. Harley testified that he had stolen the checks from the W. and L. Supply company, which he said was owned by Leach and Graft Wolf and manufactured punchboards.

WHY TAKE PILLS?

THERE'S no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennehole, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

CHARIVARI CROWD DARES GOVERNOR TO SEND AN ARMY

MARENGO VALLEY FARMER
GROUP IN WISCONSIN ISSUE
ULTIMATUM

WANT BRIDAL COUPLE TO PAY
$15 OR THEY WILL CONTINUE
NOISE UNTIL WINTER

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 7.—(UP)—Several rumored Marengo valley farmers who have kept Arvo Juoni and his bride awake for 14 consecutive nights with a charivari issued an ultimatum today in which they said they'd keep it up all winter at least and dared the governor to send an army to stop them.

Immediately after the Juonis were married two weeks ago a crowd of neighbors gathered at their farm home and the charivari began. It is custom in this northern country for the bridegroom to stop the charivari by donating candy, money or cigars to the noisemakers. Juonis didn't donate.

The second night the crowd was larger. The charivariers made an awful noise. They said they would leave for $15. Juonis called the sheriff.

Elmer Sanders, the sheriff, tried to drive away the crowd, but failed. On succeeding nights he took away the noise instruments, bringing a truck each night to haul them away. Now he has his jail so full of tubs and tin-pans he hasn't room for any prisoners.

On the twelfth day the Juonis appealed to Gov. Phillip LaFollette for aid. They said they couldn't get any sleep. LaFollette asked the state's attorney to investigate.

Last night the crowd was bigger than ever. All the residents of the valley and a lot from outside were there. One load came all the way from Chicago, several hundred miles. All were determined Juoni should pay and now they have a new idea—that there's some sort of an unwritten law that if a charivari lasts a month it must go on for a year. Then they might try a "day shift" at serenading, the residents threatened.

Sanders arrived as usual, filled his truck with tin-pans and threatened to arrest 200 of the leaders.

"Go on and arrest us," they shouted. "You haven't any jail. And we dare the governor to send an army too. Unless Arvo Juoni pays us to quit, this charivari goes on for a year."

FREE LUNCH ENDS LONG CHARIVARI

Ashland, Wis., Aug. 7.—(UP)—A free lunch brought the Marengo valley marathon charivari to an unexpected end today and gave Arvo Juoni and his bride of 15 days the first peaceful sleep since their marriage revived the old custom of serenading newlyweds into matrimony.

The babel, which threatened to become an all-winter endurance contest between Juoni and the merrymakers, despite arrests, seizure of noisemaking instruments, and appeals for state intervention, ended when Sheriff Elmer Sanders' diplomacy brought about a compromise.

He stepped in when four score celebrants gathered for the 16th night of clamor around the Juoni farmhouse and appointed a committee of eight serenaders to meet with the Juonis, who had listened to the din for 15 days rather than pay the $15 tribute.

With Saunders as umpire, the Juonis, hollow-eyed from loss of sleep, met the committee and capitulated. Still refusing to pay money, the newlyweds agreed to serve a free meal to all the "shivareers." The committee accepted.

In the early morning hours, Juoni and his bride stifled their yawns and kept the table in their little kitchen filled with pickled herring and other delicacies while the celebrants trooped in six at a time and ate their fill.

Finally the merrymakers departed, promising that the Juonis would hear no more clamor, and planning ahead for the next charivari, scheduled to start in a few days, when another couple, living not far from the Juoni farm, intends to be married.

Sheriff Saunders just smiled at the threats. Up to today, he had seized most of the circular saws, wash boilers and fiddles used for noise-making. While the merrymakers ate at the Juoni table in the peace feast, he went outside and took the remainder.

SEPTEMBER 5 GALA DAY

Minnesota Boys and Girls Welcome
Opening of Minnesota
State Fair

Saturday, September 5, will be a gala day for Minnesota boys and girls. It will be the big opening day of the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, to continue to Sept. 12, and it is of special interest to the younger generation because it has been dedicated to them.

Children's Day will be everything that the designation suggests, and the youngsters will be given every opportunity to take possession of the grounds. The courtesy of the State Fair management, of course, will begin at the outside gates, where children 15 years of age or under will be admitted free.

Everywhere on the big exposition grounds there will be evidence of concession to the youthful honored guests. Following the announcement of cut prices for the rides, the shows and other attractions under direct supervision of the management, ice cream, lemonade and other refreshment men have fallen in line with the spirit of hospitality by offering reductions to boys and girls.

Making children happy is a big part of the business of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, and that big organization also wired Raymond A. Lee, Fair secretary, that it would contribute its part to a full day of entertainment for the boys and girls with a special price of 5 cents for its shows and rides.

Determined not to stop half way, the Fair board then announced a slash in grandstand prices for children, and for 10 cents they will have a close-up view of the automobile races, the performance of the autogiro or windmill type of airplane. They will laugh with and at Billy Lorette, world-famous clown, and marvel at the dancing horses, the trained dogs and other attractions before the grandstand.

And will many of them be on hand? Well, the Fair management is planning to greet them 100,000 strong!

At the same time, R. E. Woods, president of company, announced that he was unchanged in his position to wage cuts and said none was contemplated by Sears, Roebuck.

More efficient management of the company's retail stores was responsible for the increased profits, Woods said.

101 RANCH SHOW IS STRANDED IN WASHINGTON

"THERE JUST AIN'T ANY MONEY, SHOW IS BROKE," SAYS
MANAGER

"THE MEN WON'T MOVE UNTIL
THEY ARE PAID OFF"

By DELBERT CLARK
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 7.—(UP)—The big-top rodeo and circus outfit of the 101 Ranch in Oklahoma where Tom Mix learned to sit a horse and Will Rogers mastered the lariat, is stranded.

The freaks were playing hearts today in the sideshow tent. The armless wonder flipped cards across the table with his toes. The thin lady opposite him smiled and slapped down the queen of spades. They were killing time, waiting for their pay.

"It's perfectly simple," the manager, C. T. Bouleware, told the United Press. "There just ain't any money—the show's broke, and the men won't move till they're paid. You can't blame 'em, can you?"

To the troupe of 425 cowboys and cowgirls, Indians and roustabouts it was not quite so simple. For some it was a matter of two weeks pay, more than double that for others. And there was only $800 left in the safe.

They were still being fed, these ranch hands and stolid-faced Oklahoma Indians, but they looked nervous and ill at ease.

"Have a cigarette?"

"Don't mind if I do?" said Jack Brown, head cowboy.

That was the signal, and a pack, going the rounds, was speedily exhausted. Another went the same way.

Brown, nearly seven feet tall, with a ten-gallon hat and wind-whipped face, explained the situation.

"We're just sittin' tight," he said, "cause we don't want to have no accident on the way back to Oklahoma. They want to get us to agree to two weeks pay all 'round, payable when we get to the ranch. What the boys are afraid of is that after the train pulls out the railroad bulls 'll get orders to throw them off, except for what's needed to look after the stock."

Over in the Indian village, picturesque with wigwams, braves in store shirts were practicing war whoops. Pinto ponies stamped and switched, longhorns sidled around at the urging of a rider on a bald-faced horse. A cracked phonograph played jazz tunes.

Downtown lawyers conferred. Lew Wentz, wealthy Oklahoman who holds a mortgage on the show, was represented. He is understood to have guaranteed transportation to the ranch. But the trouper want pay.

American Legion officials conferred with employees, of whom some 200 are war veterans. The Legion is sponsoring a benefit performance proceed to go to the rank-and-file, either in cash or as a ration fund.

One thing appears certain—101 Ranch Wild West show is through, its spectacular career ended, if the trouper have any say. The oldtimers who taught Tom Mix and Will Rogers a trick or two say they're tired of being let down.

FORT WORTH LANDS AT EDMONTON, ALTA.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 7.—(UP)—The monoplane Fort Worth, carrying Reg Robbins and Harold S. Jones back to the United States from their second attempted Seattle to Tokio flight, landed here at 11:30 a. m. after a 1-500 mile flight from Nome, Alaska.

Unfavorable weather prevented the Fort Worth from refueling over Edmonton and continuing on to Texas. The refueling plane, piloted by James Mattern and Nick Greener, arrived here last night from Fairbanks, Alaska, and was ready with a load of fuel.

PATENTED PROCESS REMOVES GUESSWORK FROM ROASTING

Automatic Control of Heat Insures Exactness. Hills Bros.
Coffee Has Matchless Flavor

There are many risks attached to roasting coffee by ordinary methods. For a man must guess when the roast is right. If he misses his guess, the flavor of the coffee usually suffers.

Hills Bros. eliminated guesswork when they invented and patented Controlled Roasting—an automatic process that develops the fullest flavor in every berry of the blend!

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the unvarying flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Automatic control of heat and flow of coffee does what ordinary methods often fail to do. Every pound is roasted to the same degree of perfection, and every pound has the same fine flavor.

To preserve this delicious flavor, Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

What the boys are afraid of is that after the train pulls out the railroad bulls 'll get orders to throw them off, except for what's needed to look after the stock."

Over in the Indian village, picturesque with wigwags, braves in store shirts were practicing war whoops. Pinto ponies stamped and switched, longhorns sidled around at the urging of a rider on a bald-faced horse. A cracked phonograph played jazz tunes.

Downtown lawyers conferred. Lew Wentz, wealthy Oklahoman who holds a mortgage on the show, was represented. He is understood to have guaranteed transportation to the ranch. But the trouper's want pay.

American Legion officials conferred with employees, of whom some 200 are war veterans. The Legion is sponsoring a benefit performance proceed to go to the rank-and-file, either in cash or as a ration fund.

One thing appears certain—101 Ranch Wild West show is through, its spectacular career ended, if the trouper's have any say. The oldtimers who taught Tom Mix and Will Rogers a trick or two say they're tired of being let down.

FORT WORTH LANDS AT EDMONTON, ALTA.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 7.—(UP)—The monoplane Fort Worth, carrying Reg Robbins and Harold S. Jones back to the United States from their second attempted Seattle to Tokio flight, landed here at 11:30 a. m., after a 1,500 mile flight from Nome, Alaska.

Unfavorable weather prevented the Fort Worth from refueling over Edmonton and continuing on to Texas. The refueling plane, piloted by James Mattern and Nick Greener, arrived here last night from Fairbanks, Alaska, and was ready with a load of fuel.

PATENTED PROCESS REMOVES GUESSWORK FROM ROASTING

Automatic Control of Heat Insures Exactness. Hills Bros. Coffee Has Matchless Flavor

There are many risks attached to roasting coffee by ordinary methods. For a man must guess when the roast is right. If he misses his guess, the flavor of the coffee usually suffers.

Hills Bros. eliminated guesswork when they invented and patented Controlled Roasting—an automatic process that develops the fullest flavor in every berry of the blend!

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the unvarying flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Automatic control of heat and flow of coffee does what ordinary methods often fail to do. Every pound is roasted to the same degree of perfection, and every pound has the same fine flavor.

To preserve this delicious flavor, Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

Stark Reality in This "Movie"

A real crime drama is being depicted in action and sound here. District Attorney Geoghan, of Kings County, New York, is the director and the title might be "Confession of a Murder." As the "talkie" and motion picture apparatus is operated, Elton C. Wing is telling how he was with Gordon Hamby when the latter is said to have killed two bank employees. Left to right, seated, in this reel of real life, are Assistant District Attorney William Kleinman, Wing and Geoghan. Standing, left to right, are Detective Charles Hemmendinger and Assistant District Attorney Fred Kopf, completing the "cast."

A Superhighway in Chicago Area

A PAVEMENT 40 feet wide will carry about four times as much traffic as a pavement 18 or 20 feet wide, declares E. E. Duffy, an authority on cement topics. Five large paving mixers, each capable of turning out a cubic yard of freshly mixed concrete every minute or so, are building a pavement of this width through northern Indiana—the Dunes Relief Highway—which will bring safety and speed to the wave of motorists sweeping to and from Chicago.

The Dunes Relief Highway, proffered by Indiana as her share of the responsibility for the traffic that skirts the lower end of Lake Michigan, will run parallel to and south of the old Dunes Highway. The new road starts at Gary and extends for nearly 30 miles to the Michigan-Indiana state line, avoiding Michigan City. Aside from its width it will have another claim to modernity—it will intersect at grade with only a few minor roads; busy intersecting highways will be lifted over the Dunes Relief Highway by grade separations. The new road will be lifted over steam and electric railway crossings.

At present there is really but one outlet from Chicago to northern Indiana, Michigan, northern Ohio and points east, and that is the two-lane Dunes Highway which is filled with traffic even on week days. The new 40-foot strip of concrete will be capable of carrying some 40,000 vehicles daily and doubtless will increase travel between Chicago and Detroit and to the resort regions of Michigan and Indiana. Michigan is contemplating the continuance of the four-lane pavement on to Detroit.

The Dunes Relief Highway is not a visionary project, but rather one born of necessity. The reduction in wasted time, the elimination of accident possibilities and the stimulation of travel will more than compensate for its cost.

Throughout the country there are many such projects needed but little is being done about them. Dallas and Ft. Worth, Texas, however, are making plans for the building of a new super highway between the cities. It won't be built this year, perhaps not next year, but its construction will be speeded up by the planning that is being done now.

Farm Land Inquiries Increase

DESPITE the nation-wide depression inquiries for farm lands have held up well, according to H. C. Hotelling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association.

This year 4,144 inquiries have been received through the mails at the office of the Ten Thousand Lakes-Greater Minnesota Association for information concerning Minnesota farms. Last year at this time 4,182 inquiries had been received, which represented 38 more than 1931 or a loss for this year of less than one per cent.

The farm inquiries have been developed by the association through an advertising campaign in several farm publications of nation-wide circulation as well as practically all of the leading farm journals of the Mississippi Valley. Newspapers have also been used extensively in carrying the message of Minnesota's advantages as an agricultural state.

Mr. Hotelling believes that there is an increasing interest in farm lands and that when financial and agricultural conditions become better immigration to Minnesota will be on the increase. Speaking in this connection he said: "In my opinion there never has been a time when Minnesota lands could be bought as advantageously as they can now. Prices are at rock bottom and when conditions improve they will go up. There are a lot of city people who would move out on farms right now if they could make a down-payment. Some of them moved to the city from the farms a few years ago. When they can get the money together they will go back to the farm."

Inquiries concerning vacations have also held up fairly well and up to August 1 more than 12,000 letters had been received at headquarters offices asking for information concerning resorts and places to spend vacations in Minnesota.

Cementing Friendships

LASTING friendships are cemented at service club meetings and the cordial welcome accorded Rotary and Lion visitors gets them to spend their annual vacations in the Brainerd Lake Region.

Lately the service clubs and the American Legion have invited the officers of the various training periods at Camp Ripley to Brainerd and the entertainment in town or at the lake has found a welcome spot in the hearts of the visitors and caused them to remember Brainerd and the lake country. Contact so established is enduring.

The Rotary club has visitors who have met with the club ever since its institution and proudly record the number of seasons they have vacationed here. In fact some of them are so well established as to be considered Brainerd members during their stay. They take an interest in local and lake affairs and many of them were of especial service and help during the past lake levels campaign.

Farmer Campers at State Fair

A PLEASANT home for farmer campers attending the State Fair, September 5 to 12, will be conducted again this year by the Farm Bureau. It has accepted the invitation of the fair board to repeat the service it rendered a year ago. No charges will be made to the man who owns a tent and camp bed, as each man will be provided with a lot on which to pitch his tent and park his car. A handy kitchen with two gas stoves and hot and cold water will make things handy for the women.

Tents and equipment, for those who have not come provided with these accommodations, will be rented, as an organization well equipped with camping supplies has been invited to furnish tent service on the grounds.

Orphaned by the death of her parents, beautiful and vivacious Mary Lou Thurston lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Sanderson, and takes care of Billy, their son. When Sanderson and his wife go abroad, leaving Billy with his grandmother, Mary Lou is left on her own. Larry Mitchell, young newspaper reporter and Mary Lou's pal, finds an ad in which a companion for a semi-invalid is sought. Mary Lou arrives at the stately Lorrimer mansion in Connecticut and is interviewed by the charming Mrs. Lorrimer. Mary Lou is bitterly disappointed to learn the semi-invalid is Mrs. Lorrimer's son, Travers, and the ad should have read "male" companion. Travers, shell-shocked in the war, and suffering from another sad experience, is listless, almost a recluse. As Mary Lou prepares to leave, Travers enters the room. He rushes to Mary Lou, takes her in his arms and calls her "Delight" and "wife." Overwrought when she does not repulse him, Mary Lou remains until the doctor arrives. Mary Lou realizes Travers has mistaken her for some other girl named "Delight," and tries to fathom the mystery.

CHAPTER XI.

SHE ate with her eyes as well as her mouth. The linen was lovely, the crystal and silver perfect, the luncheon service, in tones of brown and yellow, like an Autumnal scene, the prettiest she had ever seen. And she was almost reluctant to ring for Peter at last, as he had asked her to do, and to see him appear and carry the remnants away, while Hilda, deaf and silent, set the table back against the wall again.

But Hilda had not been gone very long when Mrs. Lorrimer appeared.

She went right to the couch and sat down beside Mary Lou, who, replete and comforted, was again attempting to read the magazine as her hostess entered. And so, sitting beside her, Mrs. Lorrimer took the girl's two hands in her own and tried to smile.

"Did you have enough? Are you all right?" she asked, anxiously. "I thought you'd be happier served up here in my special room than anywhere else."

Married or Not?

"I was happy," said Mary Lou shyly, "and everything was lovely . . . but I do feel I am imposing."

"No," said Mrs. Lorrimer quickly. "It is we who are imposing on you. I must tell you." She stopped, looked down and picked up the picture of her son. Mary Lou flushed.

"I took it down from the bookcase," she stammered.

"That's Travers," said his mother, gravely, "as he used to be. You have seen him now. As I told you, he is organically sound; he has simply lost all interest in life since his return from the war. He enlisted in 1915, at 17, and stayed on in the Royal Flying Corps service all the way through. The summer before the Armistice he went to London on leave and met a girl there. Her name was Delight Harford, and she was an American girl living in London. He fell insanely in love with her . . . and, apparently, she with him. And before he returned to the front he married her—or so he says."

"Or so he says?" repeated Mary Lou, amazed.

"Yes. We have been unable to find any record of the marriage or any trace of the girl, despite the work of our agents in London. You see, shortly after his return to France, Travers was shot down and taken prisoner. After the Armistice he returned home. He had not had an actual lapse of memory—or rather . . . it is difficult to explain, he did have for a time, for he remembered very little while he was first in the German hospital and later in the prison camp. His memory seemed to stop that last day of his leave. His wedding day. He was married, he told us, in the afternoon and left directly after the ceremony to go back to the front. Since his return home he has recalled his journey to the front, his few days of service, his last flight, and his experience as a prisoner. But he has a fixed idea. The idea concerns itself with the girl we have not been able to trace. Nothing else interests him; nothing touches him. I have moved heaven and earth to find her for him. But all to no avail."

Words Without Records.

"And you don't think they were married?" asked Mary Lou, "although he says so?"
Mrs. Lorrimer made a weary little gesture.

"And before he returned to the front, he married her—or so he says."

"What am I to think?" she asked, almost hopelessly. "He says so—but there are no records."

"How dreadful for him and for you!" said Mary Lou, preoccupied with the thought of this unknown girl. Lorrimer's beloved, perhaps his wife, perhaps thinking herself his widow. Where was she? Had she died? In an air raid? Of some swift illness? Or had she forgotten him? How could she forget? Not, of course, the man he was now, a man that girl had never seen, but the boy she had loved, the laughing boy she had married.

Mrs. Lorrimer turned suddenly. Mary Lou shrank back against the couch cushions in sudden anxiety, there was something so devastating, so nakedly imploring in the older woman's face and tense clasp of her hands on Mary Lou's own.

"Mary Lou," said Mrs. Lorrimer without ceremony . . . "he thinks you are the girl. He doesn't realize . . . anything . . . so he thinks you are she. He doesn't seem to understand the lapse of time, the age she would be now . . . she must have been your age or a little younger when he knew her. He thinks she has come back to him. To stay. It is, I suppose, an extraordinary resemblance. Strong enough for him, at all events, with his poor mind and heart so lacerated by his experiences, by her loss. When . . . when he came to himself again I had a fearful time calming him. He wanted her—you at once; he was beside himself with fear lest you had gone; he demanded to see you to reassure himself. Peter and I got him to his room. Doctor Mathews, who has been our physician and close friend for many years, came immediately, and the situation explained, gave him a sleeping draught and then stayed here with me to discuss this amazing position in which we find ourselves. And finally he has persuaded me that . . . she stopped, and, to Mary Lou's infinite pity and discomfort, the bright tears clouded the brown eyes and fell heavily on their clasped hands . . . "I don't know how to ask it of you . . . she said, after a moment . . . 'but . . . everything depends on it—my boy's health, his very life, his future. Would you stay . . . Mary Lou . . . ? Could you stay . . . ? Could you possibly pretend . . . ?'"

"Pretend?" asked Mary Lou, low.

"That you are the other girl . . . the real Delight?" implored Mrs. Lorrimer.

Mary Lou stared at her, unable to believe her own ears.

"You have lived abroad," Mrs. Lorrimer reminded her hastily. "You . . . she tried to smile . . . you also fit the requirements of the companion for whom we advertised. You are healthy, normal, active, cultured . . ."

Make Believe.

"But—" asked Mary Lou—"pretend to be someone else . . . Someone he cared for . . . ? His wife?" she asked, and flushed deeply.

Mrs. Lorrimer's color rose also. "I have spoken to Dr. Mathews about that phase of it," she admitted, "and he has a plan. Later, if you consent, we will talk to him about it before you see Travers again. . . I'd try and make you happy here," she begged, sweetly, pleadingly, "and I'd compensate you."

Mary Lou said quickly, very uncomfortably: "Please don't talk about . . . But we must." Mrs. Lorrimer smiled at the girl, feeling her heart stir with hope. "You came, after all, for a position. I will pay you," she said, "three hundred a month, and give you your clothes and your home. No one, of course, will be aware of our arrangement but ourselves and the doctor and, of course, the few relatives I have. The servants have all been with me a long time and can be trusted. Since Travers' illness—I have gone out very little. I see only my closest friends. To them you will be a visitor."

A real crime drama is being depicted in action and sound here. District Attorney Geoghan, of Kings County, New York, is the director and the title might be "Confession of a Murderer." As the "talkie" and motion picture apparatus is operated, Elton C. Wing is telling how he was with Gordon Hamby when the latter is said to have killed two bank employees. Left to right, seated, in this reel of real life, are Assistant District Attorney William Kleinman, Wing and Geoghan. Standing, left to right, are Detective Charles Hemminger and Assistant District Attorney Fred Kopf, completing the "cast."

St. Paul, Aug. 7.—A Minnesota boy, Charles Retzlaff of Duluth, who made good in the east, tonight returns to a local ring to display the fighting ability that promises to carry him to the top of the heavyweight ladder.

His opponent, Ricardo Bertazzolo, claims the Italian championship and has never been knocked from his feet. Ring fans, however, are willing to bet that Bertazzolo will not answer the bell for the third round.

Despite Bertazzolo's record of 24 knockouts in 32 bouts, decisions over Jim Maloney, Al Friedman and Jose Santos, and shoulders that are so wide he has to walk sideways through ordinary doors, none care to bet against Retzlaff's even more impressive record of 30 knockouts in 34 fights. Both fighters can be hit and both have shown tremendous power.

Just previous to the fight, both fighters announced they have signed for important fights. Frank Marlow, Bertazzolo's manager, said he had signed for a bout with Ernie Schaaf in Boston, September 14.

According to Jack Hurley, Retzlaff's manager, the St. Paul Junior Association of Commerce, fresh from a successful $10,000 open golf tournament, will promote a fight between Retzlaff and Jack Sharkey in 1932.

John Salvator, St. Paul's new boxing promoter, will try an innovation tonight, of placing a professional second in each fighter's corner. The seconds will have no connection with the St. Paul, Aug. 7.—Unheralded golfers began quarter final matches today to take the places of champions and favorites in the national public links tournament.

Favorites fell as two rounds of matched competition were completed yesterday. By tonight only two of the eight who started out this morning will have a chance for the title held last year by Robert Wingate, Jacksonville, Fla., who failed to qualify over the Keller course this year.

A 15-year-old high school sophomore, Joe Nichols, Long Beach, Calif., was as near a favorite as anyone after he played the best golf in Thursday's matches. He won from Wesley Casper, Louisville, 4 to 2, in the afternoon. Casper had been picked to go far when he eliminated Arthur G. Salto, fish merchant from San Francisco, who carded the only par round in the entire tournament.

Nichols was matched against Al Priebe, the tall Minnesota public links champion who lives in St. Paul. Joseph Merola, New York, and Ed Greenway, Seattle, fought for the semi-final position in the other upper bracket match. Greenway shot a 150 in his qualifying round.

New York, Aug. 7.—The old theory that "as Ruth goes, so go the Yankees" no longer holds true.

Manager Joe McCarthy wishes it did, for if the Yankees team as a whole would play up to the standard of Ruth, New York might well be leading the American League pennant race instead of trailing the Philadelphia Athletics by 14 games.

COLONELS NOW IN 4TH PLACE

HOLD UNDISPUTED POSSESSION
AFTER DEFEATING KANSAS CITY

(By United Press)
Louisville today held undisputed possession of fourth place in the American Association after defeating Kansas City, with whom the Colonels had been tied. Mauley, who started the pitching for Kansas City, was the answer to the Kentucky prayer, and the Colonels pounded him for fourteen hits and six runs before he was taken out in the third. Akers did his best to start the Blues to scoring when he hit a homer in the fourth inning, but there was no one on base at the time and his rally died where it started. The final score was 8 to 3.

Starting out with five runs each in the first two innings, St. Paul and Toledo then settled down to defensive baseball, and St. Paul won, 8 to 5.

W. Miller held Milwaukee to five hits, but Indianapolis made three errors in their first game and the Brewers won, 5 to 3. Koonce's home run with a man on base gave the Indians the necessary margin for a 5 to 1 victory in the nightcap.

Minneapolis and Columbus put on a 16-inning endurance contest. Minneapolis finally took the honors 10 to 7 when Sicking, Harris, McGowan and Henry hit singles and Grabowski pulled an error, allowing three runs in the final inning.

Drivers of sixes never want less

because it takes six cylinders to give the smooth, silent power that makes driving really enjoyable

Drivers of sixes are spoiled for anything less. Drivers of sixes are "sold" on multiple cylinders. They would no more think of giving up "six" performance than any other real advancement of motoring.

Drive a Chevrolet Six, and you'll know why these drivers feel as they do. Step on the starter, let the motor idle—and notice its silence. Throw in the clutch, shift into "low"—and feel that smoothness. Change into "second," hit a faster clip, slip into "high," sweep along at top speed—then throttle down to a crawl. The smoothness and flexibility you always get are six-cylinder smoothness, six-cylinder flexibility. Annoying vibration is gone!

Over two million owners have proved this six-cylinder Chevrolet engine. They have found that it costs less for gas and oil than any other. They have found that it actually reduces upkeep costs, by holding vibration to a minimum. They know a six is better in every way—and they would never be satisfied with less!

CURRENT sport boasts several extraordinarily durable performers whose feats are worthy of history's most exacting endurance tests. Take Paulino, the pugilist, for example. The sturdy, golden-mouthed Senor Uzcudun, who began to toughen himself as a wood-chopper in his native Basque country, has fought practically all the world's leading heavyweights and has never been knocked out, or down for that matter. Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera gave the Basque dreadful beatings but both had to be contented with decision victories.

Last Fourth of July, Paulino, now in his 33rd year, went twenty rounds with the young, rugged and rough Max Baer, winning the nod from no less a famed referee than

Jack Dempsey. "Everything went" in that Reno mill. The Basque's second complained that Baer was butting. "Butt him back!" suggested Dempsey and—Paulino did, all but obliterating Maxie's once handsome beak before the final bell sounded. Pistcuffs never had a tougher or gamier exponent than this leather-absorbing Basque.

It's a long leap from the rough ring to the more sedate and gentlemanly golf, but championship play in the latter game involves a physical and mental strain fully as stern as boxing's. George Von Elm is the outstanding specimen of the "iron man" golfer. He recently forced Billy Burke to 144 holes (twice the full official route) before losing the U. S. Open championship by a lone stroke. Last

Winter Von Elm lost the Agua Caliente playoff to Johnny Golden and, a few months before that, he also suffered defeat when breaking the National Amateur tie with Maurice McCarthy. While George lost all three playoffs, they enhanced, rather than hurt, his prestige. Von Elm's nickname is "Jix" (please don't put an "n" in that word after pondering on his hard luck in links marathons).

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitcher, is current baseball's most remarkable contribution to durability lists. And, of course, quite in accord with the meaning of "marathon" as used here, the veteran Clarence DeMar probably is the most amazing marathoner of 'em all.

Retzlaff has made only one previous appearance in a Twin City ring. Last year, Hurley brought Charles down from Duluth to knock out big Angus McDonald in a round or so. Hurley, a veteran of the fight game, kept the growing Retzlaff well under wraps in Duluth and Fargo rings for two years before deciding he was ready for "big time."

Never known as a boxer, but thought successful for virtue of a tremendous right hand punch, Retzlaff impressed those who watched his workouts in the gymnasium with fine left hooks and jabs.

Bertazzolo has appeared unimpressive in the gymnasium. Slow and bulky, his only real virtue appeared to be the ability to "take 'em."

at .384 with Simmons second at .382. Gehrig leads the league in home runs with 31, in runs scored with 109 and in runs batted in with 116. Ruth is the runner-up to Gehrig in home runs with 30, in runs scored with 97 and in runs batted in with 114. Simmons leads the league in hits with 163 and is third in runs scored and runs batted in with 90 and 100 respectively.

Each of the stars added to their laurels yesterday as the Yankees defeated the Athletics, 5 to 3. Ruth hit his 30th homer, got two hits, scored once and drove in with 116. Ruth also got two hits and scored once while Simmons collected two hits, batted in two runs and scored once.

The Athletics' defeat enabled the second place Washington Senators to gain a full game and they capitalized the opportunity by defeating Boston, 15 to 1. Firpo Marberry held Boston to four hits.

Poor relief pitching cost Detroit a 4 to 3 defeat by Cleveland.

Sorrell relieved Herring in the ninth with the score tied, loaded the bases and then walked Sewell to force in the winning run.

Carl Reynolds' seventh inning home run with a mate on base gave the Chicago White Sox a 7 to 6 victory over St. Louis.

St. Louis and Chicago, National League leader and runner-up, were idle, but the third place New York Giants passed up the opportunity to gain ground on the leaders by dropping a 6 to 4 decision to Philadelphia.

Brooklyn scored four runs in the first inning and went on to beat Boston, 7 to 3, with Relief Pitcher Luque checking the Braves' fifth inning attack and pitching shut-out ball during the final four sessions.

The Cincinnati Reds broke a seven-game losing streak, defeating Pittsburgh, 3 to 2, behind seven hit pitching by Rixey and Benton.

COLONELS NOW IN 4TH PLACE

HOLD UNDISPUTED POSSESSION
AFTER DEFEATING KANSAS CITY

(By United Press)
Louisville today held undisputed possession of fourth place in the American Association after defeating Kansas City, with whom the Colonels had been tied. Maley, who started the pitching for Kansas City, was the answer to the Kentucky prayer, and the Colonels pounded him for fourteen hits and six runs before he was taken out in the third. Akers did his best to start the Blues to scoring when he hit a homer in the fourth inning, but there was no one on base at the time and his rally died where it started. The final score was 8 to 3.

Starting out with five runs each in the first two innings, St. Paul and Toledo then settled down to defensive baseball, and St. Paul won, 8 to 5.

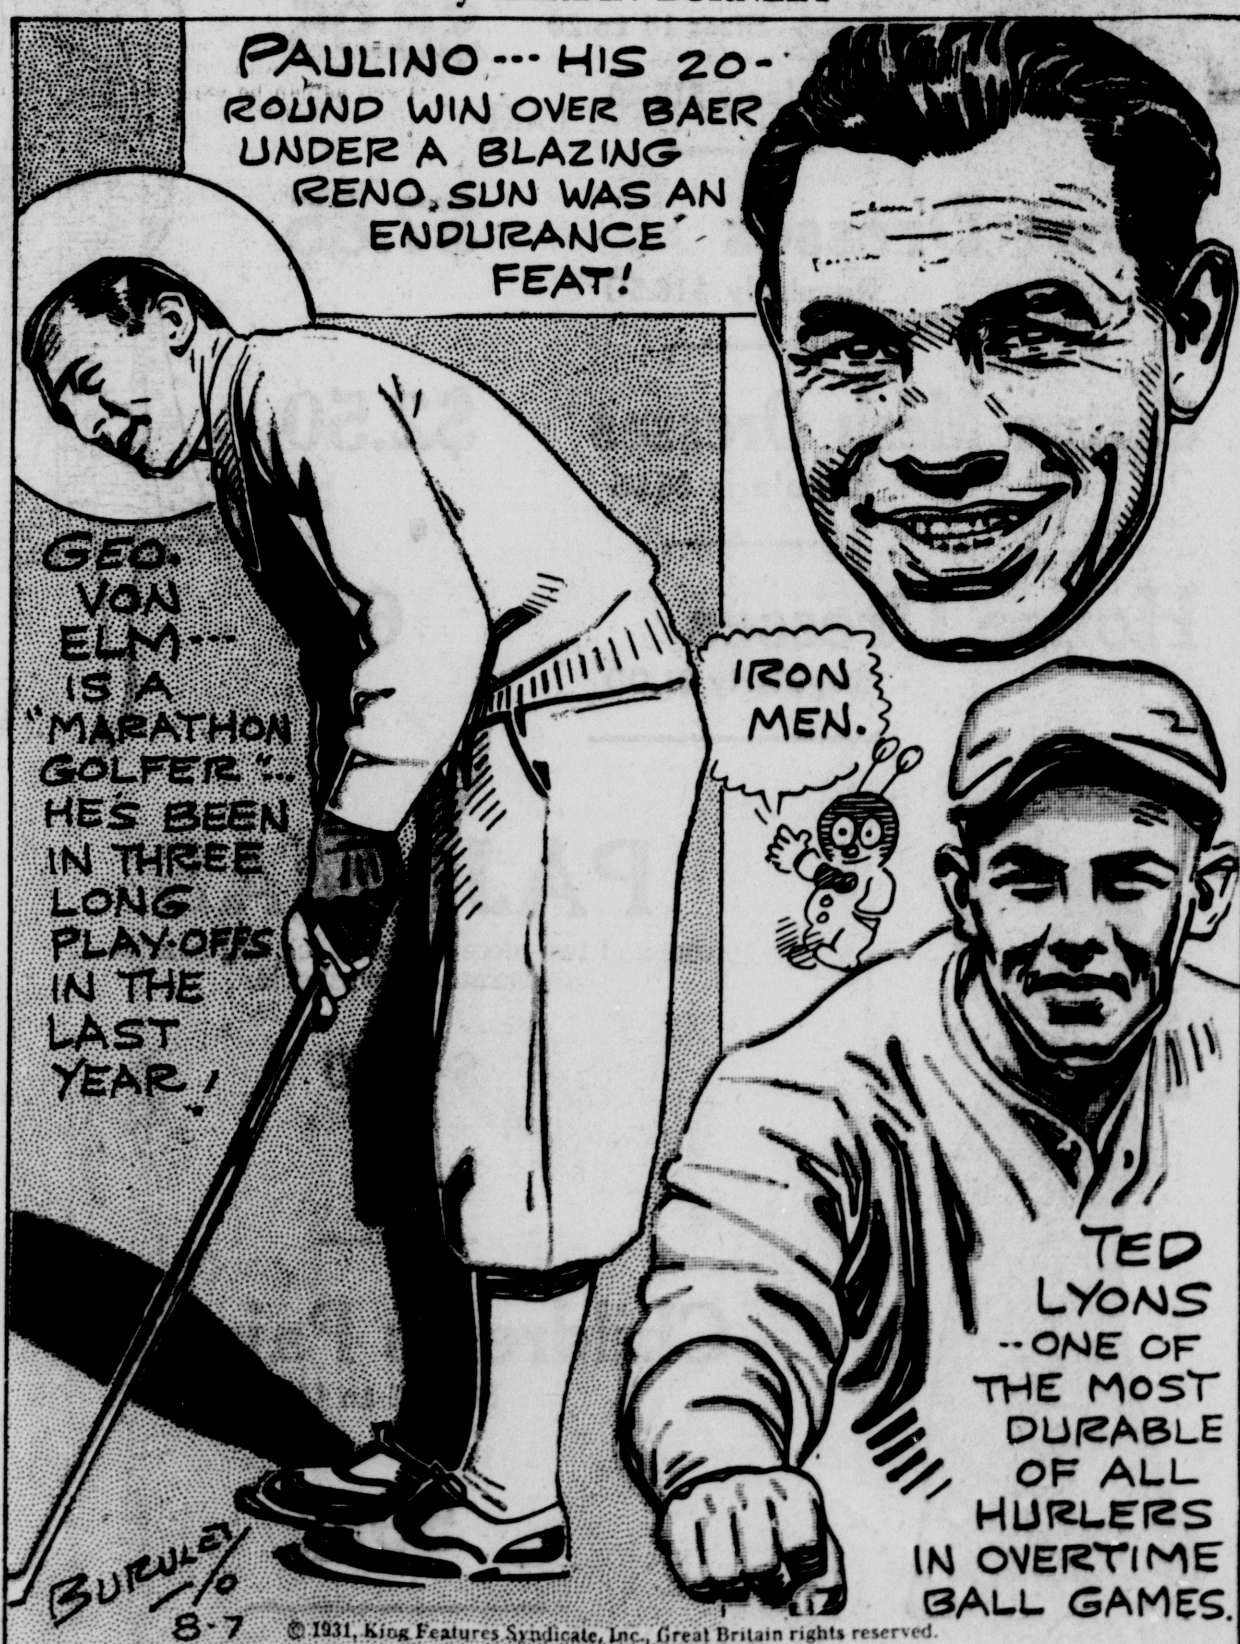

W. Miller held Milwaukee to five hits, but Indianapolis made three errors in their first game and the Brewers won, 5 to 3. Koenig's home run with a man on base gave the Indians the necessary margin for a 5 to 1 victory in the nightcap.

Minneapolis and Columbus put on a 16-inning endurance contest. Minneapolis finally took the honors 10 to 7 when Sickling, Harris, McGowan and Henry hit singles and Grabowski pulled an error, allowing three runs in the final inning.

Drivers of sixes never want less

because it takes six cylinders to give the smooth, silent power that makes driving really enjoyable

Drivers of sixes are spoiled for anything less. Drivers of sixes are "sold" on multiple cylinders. They would no more think of giving up "six" performance than any other real advancement of motoring.

Drive a Chevrolet Six, and you'll know why these drivers feel as they do. Step on the starter, let the motor idle—and notice its silence. Throw in the clutch, shift into "low"—and feel that smoothness. Change into "second," hit a faster clip, slip into "high," sweep along at top speed—then throttle down to a crawl. The smoothness and flexibility you always get are six-cylinder smoothness, six-cylinder flexibility. Annoying vibration is gone!

Over two million owners have proved this six-cylinder Chevrolet engine. They have found that it costs less for gas and oil than any other. They have found that it actually reduces upkeep costs, by holding vibration to a minimum. They know a six is better in every way—and they would never be satisfied with less!

CURRENT sport boasts several extraordinarily durable performers whose feats are worthy of history's most exacting endurance tests. Take Paulino, the pugilist, for example. The sturdy, golden-mouthed Senor Uzcudun, who began to toughen himself as a wood-chopper in his native Basque country, has fought practically all the world's leading heavyweights and has never been knocked out, or down for that matter. Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera gave the Basque dreadful beatings but both had to be contented with decision victories.

Last Fourth of July, Paulino, now in his 33rd year, went twenty rounds with the young, rugged and rough Max Baer, winning the nod from no less a famed referee than

Jack Dempsey. "Everything went" in that Reno mill. The Basque's second complained that Baer was butting. "Butt him back!" suggested Dempsey—and Paulino did, all but obliterating Maxie's once handsome beak before the final bell sounded. Fisticuffs never had a tougher or gamier exponent than this leather-absorbing Basque.

It's a long leap from the rough ring to the more sedate and gentlemanly golf, but championship play in the latter game involves a physical and mental strain fully as stern as boxing's. George Von Elm is the outstanding specimen of the "iron man" golfer. He recently forced Billy Burke to 144 holes (twice the full official route) before losing the U. S. Open championship by a lone stroke. Last

Winter Von Elm lost the Agua Caliente playoff to Johnny Golden and, a few months before that, he also suffered defeat when breaking the National Amateur tie with Maurice McCarthy. While George lost all three playoffs, they enhanced, rather than hurt, his prestige. Von Elm's nickname is "Jinx" (please don't put an "n" in that word after pondering on his hard luck in links marathons).

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitcher, is current baseball's most remarkable contribution to durability lists. And, of course, quite in accord with the meaning of "marathon" as used here, the veteran Clarence DeMar probably is the most amazing marathoner of ten all.

PRES. HOOVER STUDIES RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

EXECUTIVE METHODS TO BE MADE EFFECTIVE BEFORE CONGRESS MEETS

CONFERENCE OF ECONOMIC AND LABOR LEADERS PLANNED FOR WINTER

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Aug. 7.—Two further steps for unemployment relief are being studied in President Hoover's earnest search for executive methods of relief that can be put in effect before congress meets.

A conference of economic and labor leaders for winter planning is one of the proposals. Such a meeting has been demanded by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. Co-ordination of local relief work, possibly through the Red Cross and Chambers of Commerce, is the other.

The president already has acted to speed up the government's construction program and to strengthen the federal employment service.

Mr. Hoover's associates have cautioned against the conference proposal at this stage. They believe it would be difficult unless he could offer a definite program for adoption. Efforts to arrange conferences on the coal and railroad situations have failed. It has been suggested, however, that he might resubmit the industrialists who were called to the White House a year and a half ago and seek their views on what might now be undertaken.

At the earlier conference they agreed to try to maintain wage levels.

White House advisers believe the president will delay a decision on the conference for a month or more, possibly until the United States Chamber of Commerce concludes its survey of the winter employment outlook. The executive was assured late yesterday by Silas Strawn, president of the chamber, and Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, that the report would contain recommendations worth his consideration.

Strawn and Barnes came away from the White House with verbal statements to the press that Mr. Hoover is "much alive" to the possibility of a serious situation, this winter, and preparing to act wherever he can. They said the executive agreed with them that the idea of money relief from the treasury is "simply appalling."

"If we wait until congress gets back here we will have demands for more kinds of doles than England and Germany ever heard of," said Strawn.

"And when this country adopts the dole, it has hit the toboggan."

Strawn and Barnes leaned toward the proposal for co-ordinating winter relief work under federal supervision. If Mr. Hoover chose to act along the relief line, he could obtain the assistance of local chambers in every city in co-operation with the Red Cross. Strawn, Barnes and Mr. Hoover have all expressed the opinion that relief must be handled through local agencies.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 7.—Unemployment relief and prevention of future periods of unemployment are the chief topics under consideration today by the American Federation of Labor executive council.

The organization is on record against wage cuts as a means of economic relief during a depression; it has advanced the argument that business cannot forge ahead unless the ultimate consumers have the money with which to buy.

There will be an attempt, it was said, to urge before the government an aggressive plan for restoration of production, and with it employment and buying power.

The results of the present conference will be presented in detail in the annual report of the council at the annual convention in Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 5.

Questions of local union jurisdiction in controversial matters were first to be discussed, President William L. Green said.

He announced, too, at the opening session, that the work on the $100,000 memorial to the late Samuel Gompers would be started soon, and completed within a year. Plans of Robert Aiken, New York sculptor, have been accepted, he said.

SUPREME COURT AFFIRMS SALE OF CLAY BY WAKELY

St. Paul, Aug. 7.—(UP)—Payment of $153.07 to T. J. Wakely, Hibbing, for clay and sand which he sold to St. Louis county was affirmed today by the state supreme court.

The appeal was in behalf of the county which had refused to pay Wakely because the transaction was not formally approved by the county board, only one member of the group having affirmed the purchase. The materials delivered by the plaintiff were used in road repairing.

Payment was ordered by the St. Louis county district court in an action brought by Wakely, holding that the county was not entitled to unjust enrichment at the hands of the plaintiff. The supreme court upheld this action.

The right of a bereaved husband to sue the estate of a deceased person, whose negligence caused the death of his wife was upheld by the high court. The action was begun by Frank Fowle, Minneapolis, against the First Minneapolis Trust Co., administrator of the estate of Ralph A. Parker who was killed in the same automobile accident that resulted fatally to Mrs. Fowle. The accident occurred June 6, 1926. Fowle asked $5,000 damages. The high court ruled the case may be tried.

PROPOSAL FOR DISSOLUTION OF RELIGIOUS ORDERS IN COUNTRY AGREED UPON

Madrid, Aug. 7.—(UP)—The centuries old power of the Catholic church in Spain was threatened anew today by the republican regime.

A proposal for dissolution of religious orders throughout the country and confiscation by the state of their properties was agreed upon by the parliamentary commission studying the proposed new constitution for the republic.

The constitutional assembly, now in session, will be asked to pass on a bill with these provisions. The action followed earlier moves by the republican administration to separate the church and state after centuries of the state's traditional support of the Catholic church.

Meanwhile the government in Madrid was faced with the rising menace of labor unrest and the spread of general strikes and sporadic violence.

Alcagiras and Seville were reported in turmoil. Reports said, however, that other towns were affected and that strike leaders were attempting to persuade workers in other regions to join.

One person was killed and a dozen others were wounded at Alcagiras in a clash between civil guards and rioting strikers.

The strikers are part of a political movement chiefly instigated by extremist labor leaders.

4 BANDITS ROB HINCKLEY BANK OF $3,000 TODAY

THE FARMERS AND MERCHANTS STATE BANK VICTIM AT 9:30 A. M.

OVERALL CLAD FOUR ESCAPE IN GREEN CHRYSLER AUTOMOBILE

Hinckley, Minn., Aug. 7.—(UP)—Four overall clad bandits held up three officials and seven customers of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hinckley today and escaped with $3,000 in currency.

Three of the bandits entered the bank at 9:30 A. M., while the fourth waited in a green Chrysler automobile with its engine running. Two of the bandits ordered R. A. Nelson, assistant cashier, and Lucille Williams, the bookkeeper, to join three customers and lie on the floor.

The third bandit walked into the back room of the bank where A. D. Eddy, cashier, was conferring with two other customers, Joe Nader and O. B. Hanson.

"Stick 'em up and no funny stuff," the three bandits said.

Eddy and the two customers were forced to lie on the floor in the back room. Meanwhile the other two bandits encountered resistance from Nelson who refused to tell them where additional currency was kept.

Two more customers walked into the bank during the holdup and were forced to join the others on the floor.

One of the bandits placed his gun against Nelson's head and shouted, "Come across, damn you, or I'll scald your brains." The bandits were shown additional currency in the vault and at last fled.

A number of towns people had begun to suspect the holdup and as the bandits fled from the bank stuffing currency in their pockets, an alarm was spread. The bandits were seen heading south on highway No. 1 but the pursuers were soon outdistanced.

Alarms were sent to county authorities of surrounding counties and to the Twin Cities.

The leader of the gang, according to Eddy, was a short dark complected man of middle age.

Texarkana, Ark., Aug. 7.—Officers today guarded highways throughout this section in an effort to trap two youthful bandits who took $6,480 in a holdup of the Bank of Lockesburg, Ark., 40 miles north of here.

The pair forced M. L. Norwood, the president, and R. C. Norwood, assistant cashier, to lie on the floor while R. S. Hunsacker, cashier, was forced to open the vault late yesterday.

Officers said the bandits fled in a green sedan believed to be stolen in Dequeen, Ark.

It was the third bank holdup in this section in recent months. The bank at Dequeen was robbed of $15,000 and $12,000 was taken at Horatio, Ark.

A proposal for dissolution of religious orders throughout the country and confiscation by the state of their properties was agreed upon by the parliamentary commission studying the proposed new constitution for the republic.

The constitutional assembly, now in session, will be asked to pass on a bill with these provisions. The action followed earlier moves by the republican administration to separate the church and state after centuries of the state's traditional support of the Catholic church.

Meanwhile the government in Madrid was faced with the rising menace of labor unrest and the spread of general strikes and sporadic violence.

Alcegas and Seville were reported in turmoil. Reports said, however, that other towns were affected and that strike leaders were attempting to persuade workers in other regions to join.

One person was killed and a dozen others were wounded at Alcegas in a clash between civil guards and rioting strikers.

The strikers are part of a political movement chiefly instigated by extremist labor leaders.

4 BANDITS ROB HINCKLEY BANK OF $3,000 TODAY

STATE BANK VICTIM AT

OVERALL CLAD FOUR ESCAPE
IN GREEN CHRYSLER
AUTOMOBILE

Hinckley, Minn., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Four overall clad bandits held up three officials and seven customers of the Farmers and Merchants State Bank of Hinckley today and escaped with $3,000 in currency.

Three of the bandits entered the bank at 9:30 A. M., while the fourth waited in a green Chrysler automobile with its engine running. Two of the bandits ordered R. A. Nelson, assistant cashier, and Lucille Williams, the bookkeeper, to join three customers and lie on the floor.

The third bandit walked into the back room of the bank where A. D. Eddy, cashier was conferring with two other customers, Joe Nader and O. B. Hanson.

"Stick 'em up and no funny stuff," the three bandits said.

Eddy and the two customers were forced to lie on the floor in the back room. Meanwhile the other two bandits encountered resistance from Nelson who refused to tell them where additional currency was kept.

Two more customers walked into the bank during the holdup and were forced to join the others on the floor.

One of the bandits placed his gun against Nelson's head and shouted, "Come across, damn you, or I'll scatter your brains." The bandits were shown additional currency in the vault and at last fled.

A number of towns people had begun to suspect the holdup and as the bandits fled from the bank stuffing currency in their pockets, an alarm was spread. The bandits were seen heading south on highway No. 1 but the pursuers were soon outdistanced.

Alarms were sent to county authorities of surrounding counties and to the Twin Cities.

The leader of the gang, according to Eddy, was a short dark complected man of middle age.

Texarkana, Ark., Aug. 7. — Officers today guarded highways throughout this section in an effort to trap two youthful bandits who took $6,480 in a holdup of the Bank of Lockesburg, Ark., 40 miles north of here.

The pair forced M. L. Norwood, the president, and R. C. Norwood, assistant cashier, to lie on the floor while R. S. Hunsacker, cashier, was forced to open the vault late yesterday.

Officers said the bandits fled in a green sedan believed to be stolen in Dequeen, Ark.

It was the third bank holdup in this section in recent months. The bank at Dequeen was robbed of $15,000 and $12,000 was taken at Horatio, Ark.

JUDGE CONSIDERS KIDNAP EVIDENCE

Will Render Verdict in Case Against Orval Brady Monday Afternoon

Judge J. H. Warner took under advisement today the case of Orval Brady, charged with kidnaping Mary Louise Cochran, 15 year old mother, from Irondale township, July 28. He will announce his decision Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Brady will either be held to district court on the serious charge or the complaint of abduction will be dropped.

The girl, her mother, Mrs. Estella Cochran, and the boy all reside in Irondale township near Ironton coming there from Missouri although the boy did not know the others in Missouri.

Brady, in his early twenties, conducted his own case in municipal court this morning, cross examining witnesses and taking the stand in his own behalf.

The alleged kidnaping followed a brief romance which started after the fourth of July. The girl asserted that the boy coaxed her to leave her mother and the boy said the girl came to him and asked him to get married and that she wanted to leave her home.

The boy said he was told by the girl that her mother threatened her with a gun and that she was beaten.

Brady was arrested at Staples after the two had been gone for three days, living at the homes of friends in and near Brainerd. The girl had her seven weeks old child with her.

A note left by the girl with her mother was quoted in court as follows:

"I'm looking for work. Don't look for me. If you can be better to me I will come home."

Brady said the girl wanted to get married so he had her write down her name, address and age. He said the girl put her age on the paper as 19 years and that the day before they left Irondale he made application for a marriage license at the clerk of court's office in Brainerd. He said he took the girl at her word when she wrote her age as 19 years. He was unable to produce the paper, saying he thought he put it in his clothes.

Brady said that he and Mary Louise planned to come back to Brainerd and be married. They then would leave here to look for work, he said.

Former Old Resident Passes
Mrs. Adolf Johnson passed away at Seattle, Wash., on July 12 at the age of 78 years. Up to five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson had been residents of Brainerd for 48 years. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Mable Swinburne, a son Edward G. Johnson, all of Seattle, Wash. A daughter Signa Johnson Bayer predeceased her 13 years ago. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. William Holmberg, Duluth and Mrs. A. Scottberg, Woodland, Wash. She was laid to rest at Lake View cemetery, Seattle, Wash.

Ellison to Interview Prospective 'U' Frosh

Preparations for the annual Freshman week at the University of Minnesota from Monday, September 21, to Saturday, September 26 are nearing completion.

Malcolm Ellison, Sophomore, at the University, has been appointed chairman of the Brainerd district. He is prepared to interview high school graduates that are contemplating matriculation at the University this fall. Parents of prospective students are also urged to talk to Malcolm Ellison if they have any questions to ask concerning the University.

Credentials for enrollment must be mailed to the University of Minnesota registrar immediately if they have not already been sent.

Through Freshman week, which was inaugurated six years ago at Minnesota, the administration, faculty members and students attempt to acquaint new students with the campus and with University life before classes actually commence. By having the new students come to school one week early, the Freshman week officials feel that they gain much through the friendly contacts with those that are already in attendance. Problems or difficulties that confront the freshman are ironed out before school starts in earnest.

The purpose of the district committee is to inform the students as much as possible before they embark on their academic career. Many misunderstandings can be eliminated beforehand if consultations are held between the district committee head and the prospective undergraduate.

Different types of meetings will be held in the various districts throughout the state. Many district chairmen are planning picnics. Others are holding rallies at the theatres or high schools.

Besides the routine of registration a full program of entertainment will be arranged by the Freshman week committee to keep the new students engaged during the week preparatory to the opening of classes. Dramatics, a theatre party, men's and women's mixers, church night, and an enormous carnival are but a few of the events already arranged for the week's schedule.

OFFICERS BRUSH UP ON ARMS DRILL

Program for 135th Infantry Outlined. Athletes Prepare for Field Day

Officers of the 135th Infantry became acting "buck" private, corporals and sergeants as they were put through a "refresher" course yesterday afternoon during the school period. The course included the rudiments of the manual of arms and close order drill on this occasion, but the daily schools for officers are designed to give them an opportunity to brush up on their standards of drill and allow them to give better instruction to the enlisted men of their units. The schools are progressive and will include many other phases of soldiering in the field during the remainder of camp.

Regular army instructors are directing the officers' schools, Capt. H. R. Anderson directing that in close order drill and manual of arms yesterday. Today Capt. McLenden will present a practical class in musketry. Tomorrow Capt. M. B. Bells will preside at a conference on machine guns in attack. Capt. Nels Stadig will direct tactical work on a bowitzer platoon in attack and Monday Major R. C. Birmingham will lead another tactical walk on a rifle platoon in attack. The stress placed on these schools for officers and men, their efficiency and careful planning and the interest taken in them has been the principal reason for the 135th's exceptional progress and continual commendation by high military authorities.

A great field day is booked for the final Friday and, with plans made far in advance, the affair will attract some of the best of Minnesota's high school athletes and a number of others as able. All of the events of a college field and track meet will be included and other competition in baseball, kitenball and other team effort is scheduled. Water events have been called off because of the Mississippi river near the camp cannot be used for swimming.

Growing numbers, drawn by reports of the opening regimental parade, attended the second Tuesday evening and additional growths in the throngs are expected for all of the future evening ceremonies. Company B of Atkin continued to raise the high standard of guard mount show put on since camp opened by Company A of Stillwater and Company I of Madison. Headquarters company of Minneapolis is slated to mount guard this evening for its tour of guard during the following 24 hours.

BUSINESS MAN IS RESCUED FROM KIDNAPERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—John Hough, 28-year-old purchasing agent of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Chicago, was rescued today from the two young men who kidnaped him at Chicago in his own automobile. The kidnapers were arrested.

Police said the prisoners, Roy Wallace, 27, Chicago, and Fred La Mareche, 22, Seattle, admitted the abduction, but explained they only wanted to go to Rhineclander, and had intended to free Hough there.

Hough's story was that he met the pair on Chicago's west side last night and invited them into his automobile to "show off" the radio he had just obtained. He said they told him he was going to be taken "for a ride," threw him into the back seat and drove to Milwaukee.

The victim's plight was discovered when Milwaukee police stopped the automobile to question its occupants about a robbery. Hough was cowering in the rear seat. Search disclosed a pistol on one of the kidnapers.

BUSINESS MAN IS RESCUED FROM KIDNAPERS

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 7.—(UP)—John Hough, 25-year-old purchasing agent of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, Chicago, was rescued today from the two young men who kidnaped him at Chicago in his own automobile. The kidnapers were arrested.

Police said the prisoners, Roy Wallace, 27, Chicago, and Fred La Marche, 22, Seattle, admitted the abduction, but explained they only wanted to go to Rhineland, and had intended to free Hough there.

Hough's story was that he met the pair on Chicago's west side last night and invited them into his automobile to "show off" the radio he had just obtained. He said they told him he was going to be taken "for a ride," threw him into the back seat and drove to Milwaukee.

The victim's plight was discovered when Milwaukee police stopped the automobile to question its occupants about a robbery. Hough was cowering in the rear seat. Search disclosed a pistol on one of the kidnapers.

Nabbed on Historic Common

Historic Boston Common was the scene of "Goldie" Waldman's downfall when Communist agitators voiced their fiery denunciations of all things American before a huge crowd. "Goldie" is shown being escorted to jail by brawny arms of the law. Even though she may be small, she put up quite a protest to being transferred from the great open space of Boston Common to the close confines of a cell. Fourteen other over-enthusiastic "reds" suffered a similar fate.

GUS WINKLER FRACTURES SKULL IN CAR MISHAP

IDENTIFIED AS MEMBER OF THE
GANG ONCE HEADED BY
"KILLER" BURKE

POLICE SAID HE ADMITTED HIS
NAME WHEN CHECKED ON
FINGER PRINTS

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 7.—Identified as a member of the gang once headed by the nation's most dangerous criminal, Fred (Killer) Burke, Gus Winkler was under police guard in a hospital today, his skull fractured in an automobile accident.

Winkler, first thought to be Fred Kral, was identified by his finger prints. Police said he admitted his true identity when confronted with their findings. Police attention was attracted to him when a revolver and liquor was found in the wrecked automobile. A companion, John R. Moran, Louisville, Ky., also was held. He suffered a broken jaw in the crash.

By a strange coincidence, it was in this town that Burke, named in robberies and murders in nearly a score of states, finally reached the end of his trail. Also, an automobile accident figured in the case.

Burke, charged with the murder of a policeman, was returned here last spring following his capture in a farm house in northwestern Missouri. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to Marquette prison for life.

In Winkler's clothes officers found a pilot's license made out to Jerry Kral, the name he apparently was using. He is wanted, they said, in Los Angeles, Patterson, N. J., Plano, Ill., and Piqua, O. The charges are robbery in the first three cities and murder in Piqua. Police were questioning him about bank robberies in half a dozen middle west states committed by Burke's gang.

CAPT. FAWCETT STARS IN THE WEST

THE BREEZY POINT SPORTSMAN BREAKS 50 STRAIGHT AT DEL MONTE, CALIF.

Captain W. H. Fawcett of Breezy Point Lodge, who is leisurely touring to the west coast to attend the Pacific international trapshooting tournament, in an exhibition of his shooting prowess broke 50 birds straight from 16 yards, while at the Del Monte, Calif., traps.

At Reno Captain Fawcett was the guest of his friend, Jack Dempsey, and with the former heavyweight champion he attended the races. The Reno Racing Association holding its summer meeting, named its sixth race on July 14 the Captain Billy Fawcett handicap. Eight horses were entered for a purse of $1,000, three year olds and older running a mile and one-sixteenth. 'HUNK' ANDERSON
LEAVES MAYO CLINIC

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 7. — (UP) — Hartley W. Anderson, Notre Dame football coach, today was released from the Mayo clinic where he had been convalescing from meningitis and an appendicitis operation.

Anderson will leave tonight for

Nabbed on Historic Common

Historic Boston Common was the scene of "Goldie" Waldman's downfall when Communist agitators voiced their fiery denunciations of all things American before a huge crowd. "Goldie" is shown being escorted to jail by brawny arms of the law. Even though she may be small, she put up quite a protest to being transferred from the great open spaces of Boston Common to the close confines of a cell. Fourteen other over-enthusiastic "Reds" suffered a similar fate.

Organs in Reverse

"Peaches" Myhre (above), 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Myhre, of Poplar Grove, Mo., has been found by physicians to have her entire organic system virtually in reverse. Her heart is on the right side and all organs are correspondingly on the opposite side to normal. "Peaches," however, is in excellent health.

South Bend, Ind., to make preparations for football practice at Notre Dame, opening September 15. Mrs. Anderson left for South Bend last week.

Anderson came to Rochester complaining of headaches and while undergoing treatment for meningitis was operated on for appendicitis.

GUS WINKLER FRACTURES SKULL IN CAR MISHAP

IDENTIFIED AS MEMBER OF THE
GANG ONCE HEADED BY
"KILLER" BURKE

POLICE SAID HE ADMITTED HIS
NAME WHEN CHECKED ON
FINGER PRINTS

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 7. — Identified as a member of the gang once headed by the nation's most dangerous criminal, Fred (Killer) Burke, Gus Winkler was under police guard in a hospital today, his skull fractured in an automobile accident.

Winkler, first thought to be Fred Kral, was identified by his finger prints. Police said he admitted his true identity when confronted with their findings. Police attention was attracted to him when a revolver and liquor was found in the wrecked automobile. A companion, John R. Moran, Louisville, Ky., also was held. He suffered a broken jaw in the crash.

By a strange coincidence, it was in this town that Burke, named in robberies and murders in nearly a score of states, finally reached the end of his trail. Also, an automobile accident figured in the case.

Burke, charged with the murder of a policeman, was returned here last spring following his capture in a farm house in northwestern Missouri. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to Marquette prison for life.

In Winkler's clothes officers found a pilot's license made out to Jerry Kral, the name he apparently was using. He is wanted, they said, in Los Angeles, Patterson, N. J., Plano, Ill., and Piqua, O. The charges are robbery in the first three cities and murder in Piqua. Police were questioning him about bank robberies in half a dozen middle west states committed by Burke's gang.
